(i) - Answer

In this poem, poet tells us to stop ourselves and introspect the course of our actions. He tells that count to twelve, for this brief interval of time everyone will stop and there is silence and silence everywhere. If we stop our arms then no one would ~~be~~ hurt. Because most of the troubles come out of our actions. There were no wars in the borders. The fisherman will not catch the fishes. The salt collectors see their hands and take care of himself. Most of the problems in our life arise by our hurry and rush. So, it is better to be still and introspect ourselves.

Answer - 05The Importance of Trees

Trees are very important for us. They give us oxygen to inhale. They inhale the carbon dioxide which we exhale and maintain the amount of carbon dioxide in the environment.

There are different types of trees that serve us in many ways. We get rubber, woods for making our houses and furniture. We can get fire from the woods of the trees. They provide shelter to many wild animals. They provide food to human beings and to many animals. Some animals are herbivorous and dependent on trees and plants to live. Trees are looking very beautiful when we see
