Loisel was a caring and a loving husband. He was very kind. He was not over ambitious like his wife Mathilde. He was devoted to her. When Mathilde refused to go to the ball party, he made her ready and convince her to go to the party. He gave her four hundred franc francs to buy a gown. He also suggested to her to lend a necklace from her rich friend Madame Forestier for the ball party. When she lost her necklace he did not rebuke her but made all possible efforts to find the necklace. He followed the cab, went to near to minister's house. He went to police station and newspaper office to offer reward. He borrowed money from other to buy the necklace and replace it. He worked over night to repay the cost of the necklace. Thus according to me Mathilde was very lucky to have such a caring and loving husband.

The poem 'Invocation' inculcates the ethics of collective living through mutual love and ~~was~~ understanding. The poet feels a lack of harmony, peace and concord among the countrymen. We should be concord not only with our people whom we know well but also with the people who are not familiar to us. We should have same opinions, and intentions and purposes. The divine spirit within us should be not be fought against. We should resolve our issues peacefully. We should not fight. We have already fought many battles. War did not solve any problem but leave a lot of cries behind it. We should not fight against the spirit which is thought to be separated from the body. In this way the speaker wishes to achieve concord.

Galsworthy original title for the play was 'the cigarette box'. The whole story revolves around the cigarette box.

When John Barthwick came to know about the theft of silver box, he called Snow, a detective to investigate the matter. He arrested Mrs. Jones and Mr. Jones for the theft of silver box. In reality Mrs. Jones was innocent. She had done nothing. Mr. Jones in an effect of drink, and in a fit of passion, stole the silver box. The court-case was held and was given a hard punishment of imprisonment of one month.

Mr. Jones was satisfied with his punishment but he wants Jack ^{also} should get punishment as he stolen the crimson silk purse of a lady. But in vain, he did not get a punishment.

Thus every event in the play is due to the silver box. The 'silver' represent the ongoing class war between the rich and poor. Thus the title of the play was justified which is very relevant according to the theme of play.

Any current problem of India

Unemployment

India is a great democratic country. It uses various measures and reforms for the well functioning of itself. Its great power is youth. But nowadays there is a problem regarding unemployment. It is a great problem for the well functions of our country.

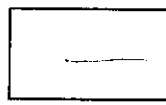

Unemployment means people who are educated or not do not have any work to do. They are just roaming here and there. They just get their degrees and sit at home. Sometimes they are not willing to work. It causes a great loss of our democracy.

Population is increasing day by day. Now we have population which is three times its value during the time of Independence. Since there are many people but jobs are less. This is the main cause of unemployment. Government could not provide everyone a job to do. Thus the problem of unemployment arises.

This is the main cause for many suicide attempts. People after having diplomas want jobs. Since they are not facing having job they turn to the wrong paths of their life like corruption, terrorism etc. This causes a great sensation in our country. Everytime, everyday newspaper is full of suicide doings due to unemployment. Also due to the ~~not~~ lack of employment programme in school, colleges or universities, people lack skill to do work.
